A gamer sets a target multiplier (e.g., 2x, 10x, or perhaps 1000x), positions a bet utilizing cryptocurrency (like Bitcoin, Ethereum, or GBPT), and hits the roll button. If the randomly created game outcome is equivalent to or higher than the chosen target, the player wins. If it falls short, the bet is lost.

Comprehending the Math: Risk vs. Reward

The core appeal of Limbo depends on its transparent probability design. Unlike slots where Return to Player (RTP) percentages can be obscured, Limbo normally runs with a fixed house edge-- normally around 1% (indicating an RTP of 99%).

To comprehend how the game works in practice, think about the relationship in between the target multiplier, the win opportunity, and the prospective payout.

Limbo Multiplier vs. Win Chance (Based on a 1% House Edge)

Target Multiplier Theoretical Win Probability Payout on a £ 10 Bet
1.01 x 98.01% £ 10.10 2.00 x 49.50% £ 20.00
5.00 x 19.80% £ 50.00 10.00 x 9.90% £ 100.00 50.00 x 1.98% £ 500.00 100.00 x 0.99% £ 1,000.00 1,000.00 x 0.099% £ 10,000.00

As the table illustrates, targeting a low multiplier (like 1.01 x) offers the player an almost 98% chance of winning, however the earnings per win is minimal. Conversely, aiming for a 1,000 x multiplier offers life-altering returns on a little bet, but the chances of striking it are less than 0.1%.
