Rothwell and Desborough sit close enough to Corby that a trip for a proper repair rarely feels like a hardship, and the drive is short enough to fit in around the school run or a lunch break. Plenty of people from both towns already head to the High Street for their phones, tablets and laptops, and it is easy to see why. A dedicated repair shop with an experienced team usually beats a quick fix from somewhere that treats repairs as a sideline.

Free Fusion is an independent device specialist with more than a decade of repair experience, and the shop is at 62a High St in the Old Village area of Corby. You can walk in at any time we are open, which means weekdays and Saturdays, without an appointment. That flexibility suits people who work during the week and would rather deal with a broken screen on a Saturday morning than juggle a courier delivery.

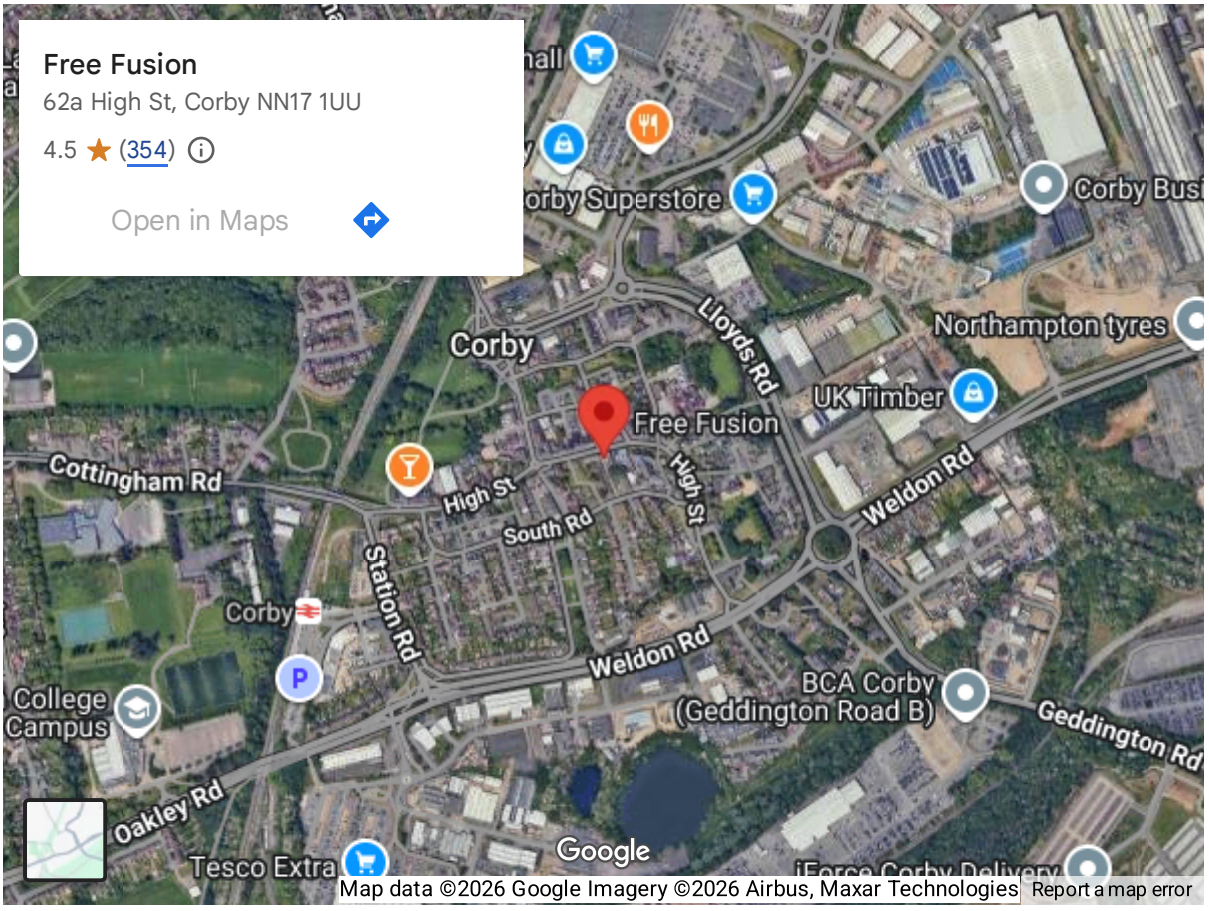

The range of repairs is wide. We handle screen replacement, battery replacement, charging port replacement, back glass and chassis work, camera glass and water damage diagnosis, across iPhones, iPads, Samsung Galaxy, Google Pixel and more. Local customers receive a free diagnosis, so you find out exactly what is wrong before you decide. Prices start from £24.99 for an iPhone screen, from £19.99 for an iPhone battery and from £39.99 for an iPad screen.
